National Night Out

At our June 3 CCCA meeting, Captain Wayne Vincent of the Arlington County Police Department Outreach Unit urged us to consider organizing a community event as part of the National Night Out (NNO) festivities. NNO is an annual community-building campaign that promotes police-community partnerships and neighborhood camaraderie to make

Join the Crystal City Civic Association (CCCA) and the Crystal City BID for our first National Night Out event.

Meet with neighbors, police officers, firefighters and other County personnel. The Stand will be open and serving up delicious food and drink. Local shops and restaurants will be on hand with raffles and giveaways.

For more information, visit <https://www.facebook.com/crystalcitycivic/> our neighborhoods safer and improve quality of life. During the campaign, residents in neighborhoods throughout Arlington County and across the nation are asked to turn on their porch lights, lock their doors and spend the evening outside with their neighbors, police officers, firefighters and other County personnel. Block parties will occur simultaneously throughout Arlington County and nationwide.

This year, the Crystal City BID and Crystal City Civic Association have partnered to host Crystal City's FIRST ever National Night Out event on Tuesday, August 6 from 6-9 pm. The event will take place at the Water Park across from 1750 Crystal Drive. The Stand will be open and serving up its delicious food and drink and a number of Crystal City shops and restaurants will be doing raffles and giveaways on site. In addition to police and fire department vehicles, the Connection Library is doing a children's corner, Total Party will have gift certificates, and Synetic Theater may do a pirate pop up.

This will be fun for the whole family. We hope to see you there!

Next CCCA Meeting September 12

We have confirmation from our Arlington County Board Chair Christian Dorsey and Vice Chair Libby Garvey that they will come for a conversation on "Livability in Crystal City" with the CCCA at our September 12 meeting. This will be in the middle of a lot of development issues, including Amazon's plans for HQ2. Mark your calendars as this will be a great opportunity to hear from our Board members, ask your questions, and have a conversation on the new "Livability Framework."

Livability Framework

Recognizing that the pace of development in the 22202 area is expected to surge from mid-2019 onwards, and that recent community forums have shown that livability is a primary concern in our neighborhoods, the leadership of Crystal City, Aurora Highlands and Arlington Ridge Civic Associations coordinated to develop a "Livability Framework" (click here to download). This document articulates a vision for an integrated, holistic approach to achieving a highly livable community across our diverse neighborhoods and defines a set of livability themes and specific elements. The goal is to encourage a collaborative engagement among residents, the County, developers, property owners and businesses and other organizations to develop and implement an integrated holistic approach to achieving livability across our community. It's a "living document" and we welcome feedback to our email address: board@crystalcitycivic.org. It will be a topic of conversation at our September 12 meeting with two County Board members and at a series of planned meetings after that (e.g., housing, parks).

Amazon HQ2 Designs Are Colorful But Unambitious

Amazon's designs for a new headquarters need to do more to become true landmarks for the Pentagon City skyline, say members of an Arlington County planning committee. At the first Site Plan Review Committee meeting for HQ2 Monday July 29, Amazon and Z GF Architects pitched the new 2.1 million square foot project in Pentagon City. The meeting, held in Shirlington, primarily focused on the design and architecture of the buildings, with other concerns about Amazon's arrival saved for future meetings. Read more here.

Amazon expects zero vacancy at HQ2 retail space

Amazon wants to fill the roughly 67,000 square feet at the base of its first two HQ2 towers at Pentagon City with local businesses. But some members of Arlington County's site plan review committee are skeptical the e-commerce giant will be able to fill so much space. But John Schoettler, vice president of global real estate and facilities for Amazon (NASDAQ: AMZN), said it wouldn't be a problem for the company. In the more than 40 Amazon buildings at HQ1, the storefronts are always full, he said. Read more here.

Amazon sets the rough number of employees slated for Met Park

Amazon on July 29 delivered previously unreleased details about its planned 22-story towers at Metropolitan Park, including just how many Amazonians will work there. The two towers will house roughly 12,540 employees between them, Brian Earle, a principal at ZGF Architects LLP, said during Arlington's latest site plan review committee meeting. That does not include the retail workers on the ground floor, only HQ2 employees. Read more here.

Amazon's HQ2 towers will be the same number of floors as its neighbor, but 60 feet taller

Amazon.com Inc.'s planned pair of office towers at Metropolitan Park will have the same number of floors as the residential building next door. But the HQ2 buildings will lord over The Bartlett by nearly 60 feet. The 22-story HQ2 towers are expected to hit 322.5 feet at their highest point, according to plans submitted to Arlington County. JBG Smith Properties' The Bartlett, with its Amazon-owned Whole Foods Market on the ground floor, is 22 stories but only 264-feet-tall. Read more here.

Will HQ2 be cyclist friendly? Let's count the showers.

Amazon.com Inc. (NASDAQ: AMZN) wants its second headquarters to be pedestrian and cyclist friendly. How? Just count the showers. The Seattle company's two 22-story towers at Metropolitan Park on South Eads Street in Pentagon City, the first of the proposed HQ2 buildings, will have more bike racks and showers, and wider sidewalks than Arlington County requires. That's according to a transportation assessment, prepared by engineering firm Gorove/Slade, that the company submitted to county planners last month. Read more here.

Amazon to spend $700M retraining a third of its U.S. workforce

Amazon.com Inc. (NASDAQ: AMZN) plans to spend $700 million in a massive corporate retraining initiative focused on its U.S. workforce. The e-commerce giant announced the plans Thursday for a voluntary program aimed at retraining 100,000 workers — a third of its current workforce — by 2025 through the expansion of its existing programs and the creation of new ones focused on moving employees to more advanced jobs within the company — or to find new careers outside of Amazon. Read more here.

Amazon enters in partnership with residential real estate giant

Amazon.com Inc. is inserting itself into the homebuying experience with a new partnership with Realogy Holdings Corp., one of largest full-service residential real estate services companies. The duo on Tuesday announced TurnKey, a program they assure will make the homebuying experience more convenient for consumers. The joint effort by Amazon (NASDAQ: AMZN) and Realogy (NYSE: RLGY) is rolling out in 15 cities, including D.C. TurnKey matches potential buyers with Realogy agents in an attempt to meet their every need. Amazon's products comes after the purchase. Realogy pays for the homebuyer to get a slew of goods and services from Amazon. Read more here.

Amazon HQ2 could house some of the tech giant's fastest-growing divisions

The divisions heading to Amazon.com Inc.'s second headquarters in Arlington are some of the fastest-growing in the company, according to Amazon's latest quarterly earnings report. According to the Washington Business Journal, the company said Thursday its headcount is up 13% to 653,300 full-time and part-time employees. But what those numbers don't show is that Amazon Web Services and Alexa — two of the three Amazon businesses that are HQ2-bound— are growing at a much faster pace, said Brian Olsavsky, the company's chief financial officer, during the company's second-quarter earnings conference call Thursday. "When you look at some of our most quickly growing areas — things like Alexa, AWS and the teams working on machine learning and other high-end technical projects — our technical headcount actually grew twice that rate," he said.

Olsavsky did not specifically say HQ2 would see rapid hiring, but other Amazon executives have already indicated that we should expect to see a faster-than-expected ramping up of the second headquarters planned for Arlington's Crystal City and Pentagon City. The cloud computing business is certainly expanding in Greater Washington: AWS agreed to lease another whole office building in the Herndon area, near its East Coast hub at One Dulles Tower.

Amazon's HQ2 could generate millions for Arlington's affordable housing efforts

Amazon's planned Metropolitan Park towers, totaling 2.08 million square feet of office and 67,000 square feet of retail, would exceed the density currently allowed on the Pentagon City site by about 582,000 square feet. And that could mean a huge windfall for affordable housing. Amazon will have to earn that density by providing "community benefits," Peter Schulz, a staffer with Arlington County's Community Planning, Housing and Development, said during July 29's site planning review committee meeting. Those benefits could come in the form of public art, sustainable design elements, affordable housing contributions and commitments to community facilities, per the county staff report. Read more here.

Amazon has the region riding high. Officials now have a new challenge to confront: complacency.

With Amazon starting work on its new Arlington headquarters, cementing Northern Virginia's biggest economic development win in recent history, the officials involved in landing the tech giant say they have a new challenge to confront: complacency. Leaders in Arlington, Alexandria and Gov. Ralph Northam's administration agree that it might be tempting to rest on their laurels now that Amazon has dotted the I's and crossed the T's on its plan to bring tens of thousands of jobs to newly dubbed "National Landing." But they're also warning the broader business community that they have plenty of work left to do to deliver on the pitch that lured Jeff Bezos' firm to the area, and fully realize the benefits associated with the company's arrival. ## Arlington, Amazon deal help Virginia claim Top State for Business, 2019

Virginia has been announced as CNBC's choice for "Top State for Business" in 2019. It's the fourth time the Commonwealth has taken the top honors, which studies all 50 states based on 10 different categories of business competitiveness. And of course, Arlington's nationally-watched deal for Amazon HQ2 was cited as a big reason for the win. Read more here.

Met Park Phases 6-8 Community Meeting July 10

In an unusual move due to the intense interest on Amazon's HQ2 plans, Arlington County held an introductory community meeting July 10 to kick off the review process for the proposed Met Park Phases 6-8 site plan, which is the location for Amazon's first phase of new development in the County. Over 100 interested stakeholders and community members received information about the proposed development, planning background, and an explanation of how the review process will work. County Planning Director Bob Duffy and staff from various County departments and commissions reviewed the planning processes as well as the history since 1976 of the Pentagon City Phased Development Site Plan (PDSP). Amazon's VP for Global Real Estate and Amazon's design team reviewed what the HQ2 will look like. The meeting concluded with an open house of various tables for participants to ask questions.

Review timeline for the PDSP amendments and the site plan is:

July 15	Long Range Planning Commission
July 29	First Site Plan Review Committee (SPRC) meeting
September 23	2nd SPRC meeting
October 14	Final SPRC meeting
TBD	Planning Commission Public Hearing and final consideration
TBD	County Board meeting to consider approval of site plan and PDSP amendments

Approximate Timeline for JBG Developments

JBG Smith is working on development of 9 buildings in Crystal City and Pentagon City, and 7 of them are residential buildings. Several have already been submitted to the County and are either in the SPRC process (as Met Park above) or awaiting scheduling:

- 1900 Crystal was submitted in second quarter
- River House was submitted in third quarter
- 1770 Crystal Drive is under construction

Other developments:

- 1800 S. Bell Street is currently completing renovation to be occupied for several years by Amazon and will eventually be redeveloped in the future.
- PenPlace is to be determined

More JBG site plan submissions are expected during the 4th quarter 2019:

- 2001 Richmond Highway
- 2525 Crystal Drive (south of Parks buildings)
- 223 23rd Street/2300 Crystal
- 101 12th Street.

Timing for the SPRC process depends on the County, but JBG hopes to receive County approval for all of the new site plans by the middle of 2020. If so, then construction might start on at least three of the projects in 2020 with the other residential buildings to follow in 2021, while the two office buildings need a tenant to start.

Metro Reasons: JBG Smith wants to build a new Crystal City station entrance

A plan submitted by developer JBG Smith to Arlington County could see the company put in charge of building the second Crystal City Metro station entrance, a long-sought-after project that would increase access to the station. If approved, the new entrance would be built along Crystal Drive near 18th street, providing riders a quicker connection to the proposed new VRE Crystal City station and to offices and residences in the area.

Army Navy Drive Complete Street

An open house was held on June 25, 2019, at the Aurora Hills Branch Library. The project will re-build Army Navy Drive within the existing right-of-way as a multimodal complete street featuring enhanced bicycle, transit, environmental and pedestrian facilities. The goal of the project is to improve the local connections between the Pentagon and the commercial, residential and retail services in Pentagon City and Crystal City. Meeting materials:

- 30 Percent Design Plan - including street cross sections and summaries of changes from the 15% design.
- Exhibits, data and public feedback from the January 2018 public meeting.

Anticipated construction start - Fall 2021

Anticipated construction completion - Fall 2023

3 Travel Changes to Know in Crystal City

Several projects are taking place in south Arlington to make between Crystal City, Pentagon City, and Potomac Yard neighborhoods safer for everyone. Some of these plans are still under development, while others, like the demolition of the South Clark Street bridge, are currently in progress. Learn about the big picture plans and stay tuned for more information. Read more here.

Two Potomac Yard storefronts will house Virginia Tech's initial Alexandria campus

You've got to start somewhere, and for Virginia Tech University's new innovation campus in Alexandria, that somewhere is the former Dressbarn and current Rack Room Shoes storefronts. Virginia Tech is seeking a special permit to open the initial portion of its $1 billion Potomac Yard campus inside those two spaces, which total just shy of 17,500 square feet, but the school said it could ultimately occupy up to 30,000 square feet, or 5% of the Lionstone Investments-owned big-box center. TJ Maxx is the next store over, followed by Best Buy, though there are other vacant spaces at Potomac Yard Center if the university wants to expand its presence while its new buildings are under construction. ### New Rooftop Sign Planned in Crystal City

Crystal City could be getting a new rooftop sign courtesy of the local WeWork. A site plan amendment has been proposed to allow the company to place a rooftop sign at 2221 S. Clark Street. WeWork occupies the entire building, with a large co-working space and a WeLive co-living space. Approval of the amendment is docketed for the Arlington County Board meeting this Saturday (July 13). Arlington's sign ordinance currently allows signs above 40 feet to be approved administratively, but the site plan for the building predates the ordinance change.

Arlington to Ask VDOT to Close 23rd Street Pedestrian Tunnel

After years of maintaining the little-used 23rd Street pedestrian tunnel that runs under Richmond Highway in Crystal City, Arlington will request its closure from the state. The County Board today approved a resolution to formally ask the state for the tunnel's closure. VDOT has indicated that it is willing to approve the request, under terms that include VDOT providing $87,500 of the estimated $385,860 that it will cost to close the tunnel and remove its above-ground entrances. Arlington will pay the rest of the costs. Read more here. See the County explanation here.

JBG Smith proposes 1,000-unit RiverHouse expansion

JBG Smith Properties is proposing to add roughly 1,000 units to its RiverHouse apartment complex in Pentagon City as the Bethesda-based developer ramps up its multifamily plans in the shadow of Amazon.com Inc.'s planned second headquarters. Under the JBG Smith (NYSE: JBGS) plan, the 36-acre RiverHouse will get 750 rental apartments in two six-story buildings to be constructed between the existing 16-story James House and Potomac House rental buildings. The remainder of what's planned, a mix of traditional townhomes and two-over-two townhouse units, will largely be offered for sale. Read more here.

The Freshman' Launches Pop-Up in Crystal City Shops Ahead of Main Venue Opening

The Freshman is, both figuratively and literally, a little underground. The restaurant comes from Nick Freshman, who's also behind Spider Kelly's in Clarendon. The Freshman is not planned to fully launch in its permanent home at 2011 Crystal Drive until 2020, but in the meantime the eatery has had a quiet "soft launch" across the street in Crystal City Shops. The pop-up officially opened July 8 at the north end of the shops at 2102 Crystal Plaza, in the former Au Bon Pain space.

Arlington County Issues

Arlington County Profile 2019

the Profile, an annual statistical fact book of Arlington County. This report combines countywide data sources and provides a comprehensive outlook of the most current data on population, housing, employment, development, transportation, and community services. The Profile data are used to obtain an understanding of community; for planning future services and needs; to guide policy decisions; and to secure grant funding.

Tidbits:

- For Arlington as a whole, single-family housing takes up 80% of our very small land area; no wonder we urgently need more density in the remaining areas;
- In CC/PC 10 of residents are owners and 90% are renters;
- Less than 10% are 65 and above; less than 10% are 55-64; so more than 80% are 54 or younger;
- The household sizes and number of children remain very small, in contrast with the single-family neighborhoods;
- the County uses the concept of Metro Station Areas (MSAs), which here in CC coincides with the Sector Plan boundaries; in Pentagon City it happens to include a number of single-family houses on 16th St, near River House and Virginia Highlands Park; so the proportion of SF homes in the overall area becomes 0.3 %, whereas the apartment buildings constitute 99.7 %

Five Key Arlington Takeaways from a New N. Va. Office Market Report

Driven in part by Amazon's HQ2, demand for office space in Arlington is on the rise. ### New Lifetime Dog License

If you are a dog owner, please be advised that the County Board recently adopted changes to the ordinance for dog licenses. As of July 1, 2019 the following changes apply to Arlington County dog licenses:

- All new and renewal licenses issued will be valid for the life of the pet, and will not need to be renewed as long as your pet's rabies vaccination is kept up-to-date.

- The cost of a lifetime dog license is $30.00.
- Please note that, by law, a license cannot be issued without evidence of a current rabies vaccination.

Arlington County Code §2-7 requires that all dogs more than four (4) months old be licensed with the Treasurer's Office. This is required to protect your dog, your family and the community. The Animal Welfare League of Arlington sponsors a rabies clinic at the shelter located at 2650 S. Arlington Mill Drive. The cost is $10.00 per vaccination and each dog must be leashed. For more information on rabies clinic dates and times, please contact (703) 931-9241 or visit
